Good luck with the interviews this afternoon. I feel confident that you will have a wide range of choices with different backgrounds. I was pleased with each of them and would hire any of them.

As a point of reference, to protect you from potential co-employment issues associated with conducting interviews. Be sure to make a statement at the beginning of the interview that says something like this:

"Thank you for agreeing to this introductory meeting with us. The position you interviewed with is with Streetplus and not South Park. Your employer will be Streetplus, not South Park. Streetplus has conducted the employment interviews and verified your work history and skills. This meeting is considered an introductory meeting only. Salary, benefits and schedule will be determined by Streetplus if you are selected for this position. Do you understand this?"

Call me if you have any questions. Let's hope we have a solid applicant that you guys like today so we can take the next step.
